FOREWORD

Dear ISoLEC presenters and participants,

It is a great pleasure for me to welcome you all to the International Seminar of Language, Education, and Culture 2017 hosted by Faculty of Letters, Universitas Negeri Malang. This seminar takes on the theme “Redefining Language, Literature, Arts, and Teachings in Global Era” due to the urgent need to follow the issues and development of language teaching, language, arts, gender perspective, and multicultural education in global era.

ISoLEC attempts to provide an academic forum where both presenters and participants can upgrade and refine their knowledge and skills as well as disseminate their insights, thoughts, and share their best practices relevant to the seminar theme. The seminar addresses key issues such as the teaching of language, literature, and arts in global community, language and globalization, literature and globalization, arts and globalization, the use of ICT in learning language, literature, and arts, gender perspectives in language, literature and arts, multicultural education in language, literature and arts.

This seminar invites prominent scholars in language, literature, and arts, who share their insights and expertise addressing the theme. We proudly welcome Dr. Badrul Bin Isa from Universiti Teknologi Mara, Malaysia, Dr. Ruanni Tupas from National Institute of Education, Singapore, Dr. Aly Abdelmoneim Abdelwanis from Asian Parliamentary Assembly, Cambodia, and Dr. Michaela Zimmermann from Ramkhamhaeng University, Thailand.

We are delighted to see many academics, researchers, practitioners, teachers, and students participating in this seminar. We strongly encourage all of you to take as much benefit as possible from this conference.

Have a great conference day.
